

Membership rules

1. Membership of Infinity Tactics affords member pricing and membership benefits.
2. A member is any individual, who has applied for membership, been accepted and has paid the membership fee.
Infinity Tactics retains the right to reject any application without comment.
3. On acceptance as a member of Infinity Tactics, a membership fee is charged annually and is valid for 12 months.
4. Membership is valid for 12 months, including the month of application.
If the member has not resigned at least one week before the due date of the next bill, this will constitute intent to continue membership.
Comments regarding the bill must be made in writing at least one week before the due date of the bill.
5. Infinity Tactics will send a bill for the membership on acceptance of an application. The membership fee for the first year's membership must be paid if the application is accepted. If the bill is paid late, Infinity Tactics retains the right to charge a late fee as well as charge for additional reminders of the bill. The member is responsible for all fees incurred by late payment.
6. The member agrees to follow all range safety rules and the instructors' commands with regards to behavior on the range.
7. A member has agreed to follow the rules regarding membership. Infinity Tactics retains the right to revoke membership. If a membership is revoked, any debts must be paid immediately. A member may resign by submitting a written resignation to Infinity Tactics. If the member resigns after the due date of their membership bill, they will be charged for the full year. Once paid, the membership fee will not be reimbursed.
